

To Whom it may concern, or at least, may be reading this at the FCC:

My hope is you will at least read this. My prayer is you will take it to heart. My plea is you will share and spread this cry for help.

I have watched with a broken heart as the country I so love has degraded itself into an almost unrecognizable condition in the name of "tolerance." I now find there is yet another freedom whose figurative head is in the guillotine of bureaucratic "equality." My Christian radio station, which has been a source of comfort, encouragement, guidance, and shelter from the audible cacophony is now threatened. Why?

What is so threatening to the very loud minority about my little piece of peace in the world that it must be taken from me? Why does my government, which was suppose to be "of the people, by the people and for the people" think I am not a "people" deserving of protection? My LORD and Savior does not require me to attack others and try to do them harm nor upset their oasis of peace. He instead tells me to love others whose values are different. Does that mean my government should take my rights and privileges away? I don't think so.

The airwaves are filled with audible assaults on everything. The variations in "music" alone can drive one in search of a good hearing aide (or ear plugs) very quickly. The talk radio stations can make a body loose their lunch or temper in mere seconds. Yet they are not threatened. A person can espouse anti social beliefs and irrational thoughts and spout them across the air with the greatest of ease. No one is questioning the rights of those individuals to rant incessantly. But my Christian radio station needs scrutiny? You honestly feel something which is spreading hope and comfort in a world devoid of compassion should be censored?? Really?? For what reason? Color me crazy but in the world in which we currently live I would think anything which brings good news and encouragement should be lauded and broadcast from the rooftops! Yet, the FCC is considering a proposal to select a "board of overseers" for Christian radio??? Can you spell "HITLER"?? Do you read history?

Then I hear you, pardon, the FCC, now wants to tell a radio station, Christian that is, how many people they should have on staff. Since when does the federal government have the right to dictate staffing requirements to private business?? Last time I checked the government wasn't telling local fast food chains or banks or car washes, or much of anything, except the military, how many "who"s were required to do "what"s anywhere. So why are they suddenly able to dictate staffing requirements to my Christian radio station? Is this still America, or did I suddenly move to Russia and I missed the change of address memo?

As to the translator issues.....since when do you, or the government, have the authority to tell me what I can and can't listen to with my own ears??? You, er the government, allows hate spitting, lie telling, dim witted, certified NUTS to spout on about their delusions and dementia to the point of utterly ridiculous. But silencing Christian radio is a good idea? On what planet???? For the sake of those of us with a semblance of sanity left, I beg you. PLEASE! Don't mess with my Christian radio stations. They are a last bastion of hope and peace in the audible onslaught.

Look around you. Listen to what is out there. Listen to the Christian radio stations. Then take the time to compare the way you feel after one day of nothing but Christian radio and another day of nothing but anything else. Honestly ask if the world would be better off without Christian radio. I am pretty certain you won't feel it would. Then fight for Christian radio. Everyone deserves a life line.

Thank you for your time.
